

Best Wedding Photography Packages

A professional wedding photographer's time is their most expensive asset. That's why they often price their services in Wedding photography Packages that can include engagement photos, photo albums and more.

This RISD-trained photographer specializes in capturing the easy-to-miss moments that make your big day truly special. She offers flexible packages starting at $6,000..

Georgi Richardson Photography

Georgi Richardson leads a talented team that shoots with both digital and film. Her eye for the candid (like a groomsman doing backflips) and dramatic (think tattooed bride voguing in Times Square) photos are unforgettable. Full-day packages start at $6,500.

The husband-and-wife duo brings fine-art training and storytelling skills to their wedding images. They're experts at capturing the nuances of both rustic upstate weddings and urban city celebrations.

Shari & Joshua Silk Photography

A husband-and-wife team with a knack for calming their subjects, these pros deliver timeless, ethereal images. They're also skilled at candid, documentary-style pictures and are available for destination weddings. Packages begin at $5,000.

This award-winning music photographer loves shooting small, intimate weddings and is a pro at capturing those easy-to-miss moments (think bridesmaids hysterically slapping their faces). She can be booked for digital or film.

Gina Renzi & Jude Hawkens Photography

Jude Hawkens brings a photojournalistic eye to his wedding photography. He captures those decisive moments -- from groomsmen organizing ceremony programs to a bride reapplying her lipstick -- that make your day so memorable. Packages start at $6,500.

A former fashion photographer, Cyr expertly blends ethereal portraits with joy-filled candid shots. She often shoots in New York, but travels for destination weddings, too. Her full-day packages include ten hours with two photographers and hi-res digital files.

Sarah Yale Photography

Sarah Stolfa is the president, chief executive officer, and artistic director of TILT Institute for the Contemporary Image, which she founded in 2009. She is also a fine art photographer and has taught photography at Yale University and Bellarmine University. Her photographic works speak to community, family and a sense of place. She resides in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She earned her BA in history from Brown University and an MFA from Yale University.

Leslie dela Vega Photography

With a background in fine art and photojournalism, Yale captures moments that are both intimate and sweeping. She loves the small details, such as sunlight glinting off a bride's shoes, and is available for destination weddings. Eight-hour packages start at $15,000.

Husband-and-wife team Jude Hawkens and Gina Renzi have a knack for capturing vivid portraits and joy-filled spontaneous shots. Their basic package includes full-day coverage and digital files.

Sarah Caceres Photography

A former fashion photographer, Schuster brings a creative eye to weddings, capturing telling details like a groom organizing ceremony programs or a bride reapplying her lipstick. She also offers video services. Packages start at $6,500.

Clients laud Brattke for his self-described "photo ninja" approach, which keeps him unobtrusive throughout the day. His artistic modern photos convey an inherent sense of fun. Albums and coffee-table books are available.

Sarah Osgood Photography

Having shot editorials for Vogue and Glamour, Stern's style translates beautifully to wedding photos. He's known for capturing the small moments—like groomsmen organizing ceremony programs and bridesmaids reapplying lipstick—that tell your day's story. Packages start at $5,000.

With an artistic sensibility, Yale uses soft light to capture candid moments between the couple. She can work alone or in tandem with an associate.

Ian Londin Photography

This 20-year photo veteran, a contributor to the New York Times and Elle, has a knack for capturing spontaneous moments that crystallize a wedding's emotions. He offers a range of photography and video packages starting at $6,750.

Rae combines fine-art and photojournalism to capture a wedding's most memorable moments. She books a limited number of weddings each year so she can work closely with each bride and groom.

Sarah Ekroth Photography

With a background in fashion editorial photography, this RISD grad loves to capture a variety of shots from natural portraits to sweeping landscapes. She offers full-day packages with a second shooter starting at $13,500.

Customers rave about Plucknette's ability to keep it real without being obtrusive. She also specializes in destination weddings. Rates upon request.